

The Herschel Archive

The papers of Caroline, William and John Herschel, held by the Society were transferred to microfilm some years ago with the aim of both securing this unique collection and making it available to other libraries. Individual researchers could only access the collection by visiting a library that had a copy of the archive and using a microfilm reader.

The microfilm of the Herschel papers has now been scanned and stored on CD and DVD disks. Thus the archive is now available for both libraries and individuals for study on any modern computer with a suitable drive. The collections images have been saved as pdf files and come complete with a fully searchable index. The sets also include the text of Dr J.A. Bennett's original catalogue and a Foreword by Dr. D.E. Dewhirst

The collection is available as a 3 DVD set priced at £100.00 or a 17 CD set priced at £125.00 Prices include postage and packing. Sets are made to order and delivery will take 4 – 8 weeks from receipt of order.
